Our Approach

We regularly undertake strategic reviews of our business to determine how best to serve the evolving needs of our customers. While branches are still an important part of our offering, many customers are using them much less frequently, instead choosing to use digital channels, banking on the telephone and the Post Office.

After careful consideration and noting a decline in transaction levels at Fivemiletown branch, we have made the difficult decision to close the branch on 16 September 2022, followed by the withdrawal of the ATM on 31 January 2023 - you can read more on our decision in the next section.

These decisions are made on a case-by-case basis following a thorough, strategic review and approval process, considering many factors - including branch usage and the availability of alternative ways to bank.

We have invested over £5.8 million in our branch network and the transformation of several key branches over the past number of years, and we continue to invest in enhancing our digital and online offerings.

This Impact Assessment sets out the steps we have taken to minimise the impact of our decision to close our Fivemiletown branch and withdraw the ATM on our customers, in-line with our responsibilities under the Access to Banking Standard.

In December 2021, the Access to Cash Action Group (comprising all major banks, including Danske Bank, along with the Federation of Small Business, Age UK and Toynbee Hall) announced a landmark decision that any community that faces the closure of a core cash service, such as a bank branch or ATM, will have its needs independently assessed by LINK. Under the new model, LINK will determine whether a new solution should be provided to meet that community's cash needs as a whole - not just the customers or members of one bank or building society. As a voluntary member of the Access to Cash Action Group, we have followed this model and engaged with LINK before announcing our closure and withdrawal of the ATM at Fivemiletown.

Further information on this process can be found at: <https://www.link.co.uk/initiatives/bank-branch-closures>. Communities will also be able to request a review of their community's needs from the summer of 2022.

Our Decision for closing Fivemiletown Branch

The way customers choose to bank is always changing, so we regularly review our services. While branches are still an important part of our offering, many customers are using them less often, instead choosing to use online, mobile or telephone banking, and the Post Office.

We regularly review the use by customers of our branches across Northern Ireland by monitoring the level of transactions taking place. We consider whether each branch location can remain economically sustainable once activity falls to a consistent low level over time.

During the process, we consider a range of factors including:

- Number of customers regularly using the branch:
 - Over the counter transactions have declined by 27% from 2019-2021
- The customer profile of Fivemiletown branch (detailed on page 4)
- Alternative ways to bank, including free to use ATMs (detailed on pages 6 and 7)
- Distance to nearest alternative bank branches and Post Office (detailed on pages 6 and 7)
- The number of employees affected
- The cost of running the premises

Access to Banking Standard

The Access to Banking Standard, overseen by the Lending Standards Board (LSB), is designed to ensure that customers affected by branch closures receive sufficient communication and clarity on the reasons for the closure and adequate support in accessing alternative banking services. As part of the Access to Banking Standard, we publish this Impact Assessment on our website at danskebank.co.uk/branchchanges when we announce our decision to close, it is also available in hard copy at our Fivemiletown and Enniskillen branches, can be printed on request at any branch or made available through our contact centre. This Impact Assessment is also available in Braille, large print, on tape and on disc. Please ask a member of staff for more details.

From 13 May, we will be talking to local public representatives and other community groups to let them know that Fivemiletown branch is closing and give them contact details in case they want us to address any questions, queries or investigate any support requirements. Two weeks before the branch closes, we will publish an updated version of the Impact Assessment on danskebank.co.uk, including any feedback received and additional support available resulting from the engagement.

Through it, you can check your account balances, account transactions, make transfers, view statements and more. Account Balance Service lets you set up customised text and email alerts, which can be set up to be sent daily or when a certain activity happens on your account – for example, if your account goes above or below a certain balance, or when a payment enters or leaves your account.

Overdraft Alerts help you stay on top of your account if you have an overdraft. If we have your mobile number, we'll text you when you go into an arranged or unarranged overdraft so you can take any action needed.

For more information on both, including how to get set up, please contact us or visit danskebank.co.uk/personal/ways-to-bank/alerts
